To the Members of the Class of 1963:

When I became principal of Saugus High School in September, your class gave me a warm welcome which I shall not forget. It was a pleasure for me to renew the associations which began in the junior high school. Your spirit of loyalty has set a pattern for the underclassmen.

I wish in return I could give a promise to each one of you that the freedom from failure and anxiety which you have known here will continue with you after graduation. Unfortunately, the only certainty for the future is uncertainty. The generation before you has bequeathed a troubled world, plagued by the threats of war and disaster. Grave economic and social problems, along with frightening destructive forces, are being thrust upon you.

But your legacy is not confined to problems and hazards. You have also inherited exciting new discoveries and inventions which were not even imagined a few decades ago. They will lead to greater advancements and offer a new hope of health, happiness, and prosperity for all mankind.

Your most valuable inheritance, however, comes from many preceding generations. It is the history of those individuals who learned the art of successful living in their own time. As you contemplate their lives, you realize that long ago they in their wisdom found the answer to each perplexing problem in the world today.

May you receive guidance and reassurance from their great principles and ideals, from their faith and courage, as you become members of the alumni of Saugus High School.

Most sincerely,
Ashton F. Davis.

To the Members of the Class of 1963

When I became principal of Saugus High School in September, your class gave me a warm welcome which I shall not forget. It was a pleasure for me to return the welcome which began in the junior high school. Your spirit of loyalty has been a pattern for the school. I think in return I could give a promise to each one of you that the school will continue with you after graduation. I am sure you will continue with the future in mind. The generation before you has requested a transfer to the future by the threat of you and distant future. And social problems, along with fighting education, have been that you are.

But your legacy is not confined to problems and changes. You have also inherited existing and changing conditions which we must ever imagine a few years ago. They will lead to great advancements and offer a new hope of health, happiness, and progress for all mankind. The most valuable inheritance is the history of the world. Many preceding generations have been successful in the past and have learned the art of successful living. It is our responsibility to live up to the standards that have been set in the world today. We must have more guidance and assistance from the past principles and ideas, from the faith and courage, as you become members of the class of 1963.

With sincerity,
Principal

ALMA MATER

O praise sing to red and white,
And let our banner fly,
For we are proud and we are true
As we hail Saugus High.
O marching ever onward,
We shall forever see
How great the lesson we have learned,
How firm the loyalty
That bids us raise a cheer today.
O Saugus High to thee!

Your walls are made of brick and stone
Perhaps, in time, will fall,
But lasting friendships formed within
Shall tower over all,
Shall ever be a monument
To trust and brotherhood,
Shall stand forever for the right
Forever for the good.
And so we sing this song today
O Saugus High to thee.

ATHLETICS

A sepia-toned photograph of a football field. In the foreground, a player in a light-colored jersey with the number 50 is visible. The background is filled with large trees, their leaves blowing in the wind. The overall mood is nostalgic and energetic.

Scientific Curiosity

We the editors of the 1963 Tontoquonian would like to thank the members of the yearbook, Mr. Rowan, and those students and faculty members who have assisted us. Most of all we want to thank Miss Towle and Miss Marrison, without whose help this yearbook could never have been completed.

Working on the yearbook has been an exciting experience for all of us—one we will not forget. We hope that this book will serve as a lasting record of the events of this past year.
